DIPNOTES USER MANUAL

The DipNotes application is an innovative solution to streamline and enhance the management of diplomatic communications for our Missions worldwide. A diplomatic note is used as official correspondence between the U.S. Government and a foreign government. The Secretary of State corresponds with diplomatic representatives of foreign governments in Washington, DC, U.S. embassies abroad, and foreign offices or ministries. (FAM 5 FAH-1 H-600 DIPLOMATIC NOTES; https://fam.state.gov/fam/05fah01/05fah010610.html.)

This user manual is intended for the end user who will be receiving, drafting, and sending/publishing diplomatic notes.

WHAT IS DIPNOTES?

The DipNotes application is an innovative solution to streamline and enhance the management of diplomatic communications for our Missions worldwide. The following are highlights of the system features:

- Cloud-based and protected by IRM's OKTA authentication, therefore accessible from both OpenNet and Internet, using Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA) via OKTA.
- Granted the Authority to Operate by IRM.
- Handles the entire lifecycle of a diplomatic note.
- Scalable to accommodate different-sized posts.
- Powerful internal search engine utilizing Optical Character Resolution or OCR
- Changes in the recorded in the history log.
- Allows the user to enable or disable email notifications.
- Ability to reassign a diplomatic note to another office within mission, or another post.

UNDERSTANDING ROLES AND PERMISSIONS IN DIPNOTES

The DipNotes application has nine user roles, each with a different set of responsibilities and permissions. A user can be assigned to multiple roles at any one time. These nine roles can be categorized into four groups: General Roles, Incoming Roles, Outgoing Role, and Administrators.

GENERAL READER ROLE

The General Reader role can view all incoming and outgoing diplomatic notes not containing PII (Personally Identifiable Information). However, a General Reader can view diplomatic notes containing PII if within their office and the user account has the PII designation.

SUPER READER ROLE

The Super Reader role can view all incoming and outgoing diplomatic notes within Post, including diplomatic notes containing PII.

DRAFTER ROLE

The Drafter is responsible for drafting, publishing, and archiving a diplomatic note to SMART (if available). A Drafter also manages the document templates for creating a diplomatic note and contact information of outside organizations.

RECEIVER ROLE

The Receiver role is responsible for receiving the hard copy of a diplomatic note from an outside organization. The receiver, typically staff in the Embassy's IRM Mailroom Section, will scan the hard copy of a diplomatic note, and upload it into the DipNotes application. Once the diplomatic note is scanned into the system, the note will go straight to the Distributor's queue and the person in the Distributor role will receive an email notification.

DISTRIBUTOR ROLE

The Distributor role is the person who receives the scanned diplomatic note. The Distributor is responsible for reviewing and forwarding the diplomatic note to the appropriate office(s). In addition to distributing the diplomatic Note, the Distributor has the options to reject, cancel, or transfer the diplomatic note to a different post. Once the Distributor sends it to an office, the receiving office now takes on the Action Office "role".

ACTION OFFICE ROLE

The Action Office receives the diplomatic note from the Distributor and is responsible for taking action on the diplomatic note. An Action Office may accept, cancel, or reject a diplomatic note, as well as reassign a diplomatic note to another office within mission or transfer to another post.

POST ADMINISTRATOR ROLE

The Post Administrator role can perform all actions at Post level, including managing users and their permissions. The Post Administrator can also select users from different posts and give them roles within the mission.

GLOBAL ADMINISTRATOR ROLE

The Global Administrator role can perform all the actions of a Post Administrator and has full access to all features and control over all posts. ADG personnel will be the only users having the Global Administrator role.

ISSO ROLE

The ISSO role has read access to all incoming and outgoing diplomatic notes of every post. The ISSO role can also manage users and their roles in the DipNotes application. This role is also specific to ADG personnel.

INFO GROUP

The Info Group receives a read-only copy of the diplomatic note. If an office is selected as an Info Group, the office can view all contents, including PII, but is not required to take action on a diplomatic note.

SINGLE AND MULTI-ROLE POSTS

Single-role posts are typically smaller embassies or consulates having only one office assigned to receive, review, and take action on diplomatic notes. The Action Office is assigned to do the receiving, reviewing, and taking further action to the diplomatic note.

OVERVIEW OF THE PROCESS FLOW IN DIPNOTES

Outgoing DipNotes are diplomatic notes sent from the U.S. Embassy to the host nation, other foreign embassies, or international organizations.

FLOW OF AN OUTGOING DIPLOMATIC NOTE

An outgoing diplomatic note starts with the Drafter. The figure below is a flowchart of an outgoing diplomatic note.

First, the Drafter creates the diplomatic note, which can be drafted from an existing template. The Drafter designates a classification, as well as other pertinent information, such as the recipient, the office to which it belongs, and marking the diplomatic note with having PII in it, if applicable.

Then, the draft can be saved, at which point the system will assign a DipNote Number to the diplomatic note. The drafter may also edit the SMART tags that are automatically set in the application. Linking past diplomatic notes and attaching other related documents can be done by the drafter before publishing the diplomatic note. Additionally, the application performs an OCR action that parses each word in every document uploaded by the user, which will include the documents when searching for a particular keyword.

If a draft copy is uploaded, the Drafter must attach the stamped and signed official copy of the diplomatic note to be able to publish the note. When publishing a diplomatic note, the Drafter has the choice to update, publish, or publish and send an email.

When the Drafter is connected to the DipNotes application via OpenNet, GoDesktop, or GoVirtual, then the system will upload the diplomatic note to SMART, attempting to also retrieve an MRN. The status of the diplomatic note changes to PUBLISHED.

If the Drafter is using the DipNotes application in a web browser, without being connected to OpenNet, GoDesktop, or GoVirtual, then the automatic uploading to SMART will not occur. The status of the diplomatic note will be PUBLISHED, after which the Drafter will have the option to update the archive to SMART and retrieve the MRN when connected to OpenNet, GoDesktop, or GoVirtual. Otherwise, the drafter can enter the MRN manually. In addition, attaching documents can still be done – see Figure 10 on the following page.

FLOW OF AN INCOMING DIPLOMATIC NOTE

Incoming DipNotes are diplomatic notes considered official correspondences and communications the U.S. embassy receives from an outside organization.

The Receiver will receive the official hard copy of the diplomatic note from an outside organization. The Receiver scans the diplomatic note and uploads the file to the DipNotes application. Once successfully uploaded, the diplomatic note is forwarded to the Distributor's queue.

If the receiving office has the Private Mailroom enabled, the scanned file will be forwarded directly to the Action Office's queue for action.

The Distributor reviews the diplomatic note and has a few actions they can take. The Distributor may reject the diplomatic note back to the Receiver or cancel the diplomatic note (the information remains in the system and the diplomatic note number will not be reused). The Distributor may also transfer the diplomatic note to another post or forward the diplomatic note to an Action Office. The Distributor may also select offices, called Info Groups, which can view the diplomatic note.

The Action Office may accept the diplomatic note for further action. They may also reject the diplomatic note, which will then route back to the distributor, wherein the Distributor can forward the diplomatic note to a different office. The Action Office may also reassign the diplomatic note to an office within a mission or transfer to another post.

THE OUTGOING PROCESS OF A DIPLOMATIC NOTE

Users with the role of Drafter are responsible for drafting, publishing, and archiving a diplomatic note to SMART. A Drafter also manages the document templates used in drafting a diplomatic note, as well as the contact information of outside organizations.

The dashboard of a Drafter is a visual overview of the number of outgoing diplomatic notes, categorized by statuses Published and Drafting. In this example below, when you hover over the different colored parts of the circle, it will indicate how many diplomatic notes are in the status of published and how many are in the drafting stage.

In the left menu panel, there are three menu options typically available for the Drafter to choose: Templates, Contacts, and Drafting. The circular badge to the right of My Outgoing DipNotes indicates the number of all diplomatic notes pending retrieval of an MRN. To the right of the Drafting menu option, the circular badge indicates how many diplomatic notes are in the drafting stage.

From the Drafter dashboard, the user will have access to the Templates, Contacts and Drafting menu options.

The Templates menu option is a repository of all template documents that can be uploaded, downloaded or edited by the drafter. It can also be used and shared by other drafters across the mission.

The Contacts menu option, on the other hand, is a repository of all external contacts of the mission. The contact information can be viewed and referenced when drafting a diplomatic note.

DRAFTING A DIPLOMATIC NOTE

There are two places where you can start drafting a diplomatic note. The first way is to click on the Drafting menu option, under My Outgoing DipNotes section in the left menu panel. The second way is to click on Drafting on the Outgoing DipNotes tile on the Dashboard.

- 6. Click on the green Send button. The diplomatic note will be routed back to the Distributor's queue once it is saved.

PRIVATE MAILROOM

The Receiver role is the office designated to receive the physical copy of the diplomatic notes from outside organizations on behalf of all offices. However, there are specific offices (e.g., DOJ) who prefer to receive their own physical diplomatic notes due to the sensitivity of the content. In the DipNotes application, an office may enable the Private Mailroom function. This will allow the said office the ability to upload their diplomatic notes to the application. The diplomatic note skips the Distributor's queue and goes straight to the office's Action Office queue.

THE PROCESS

When the office receives the physical copy of the diplomatic note, the office will need to scan the diplomatic note by going to My Incoming DipNotes and selecting Receiving. From the Receiving page, the user will need to select the file and click on the Upload button. Once the diplomatic note has been successfully uploaded, the note skips the Distributing process and goes straight to the office's Action Office queue.
